

WorkforceConnect

June 18 – 22, 2007

www.adamscountveducation.org

12050 Pecos Street, Suite 200
Westminster, CO 80234
Ph: 303-450-5106 Fax: 303-252-8230

The Adams County Education Consortium (“ACEC”) Second Annual WorkforceConnect

- * Help local educators craft YOUR future workforce **
- * Discuss basic employee skills your industry/company needs **
- * Get the word out to local educators about your industry requirements **
- * Assist local youth with the skills they need to be successful in tomorrow’s workforce **

At NO COST to you, ACEC invites you to participate in our WorkforceConnect program the week of June 18 – 22, 2007. Educators will visit business, government, non-profit and industry organizations to learn what positions are available, the minimum skills required for entry and mid-level positions, and career paths offered.

Your part would be to:

- Register to host 10 - 15 educators for a company tour, 90 minute presentation, and Q&A session.
- Prepare an overview of your industry in general and your specific company, occupations available at your company, outline the basic skills, certifications and degrees required for new hires, and discuss the promotion and ongoing educational opportunities available to employees.
- Whenever possible, share copies of company documents that teachers can use in classroom discussions.
- Two representatives from each organization are invited to participate in the final workshop on Friday morning and then be our guests at the wrap-up luncheon with the educators.

In addition to company specific information, educators will be given an overview of the industrial and employment base of Adams County by Adams County Economic Development (“ACED”). They will also learn of new developments and company expansions that offer opportunities for well-prepared students.

To participate in this powerful program, complete the attached registration pages and fax them to:

Adams County Education Consortium
Attn: Janie Goodwin
Fax: 303-252-8230

WorkforceConnect

June 18 – 22, 2007

www.adamscountveducation.org

12050 Pecos Street, Suite 200
Westminster, CO 80234
Ph: 303-450-5106 Fax: 303-252-8230

The Adams County Education Consortium (“ACEC”) Second Annual WorkforceConnect

- * Help local educators craft YOUR future workforce **
- * Discuss basic employee skills your industry/company needs **
- * Get the word out to local educators about your industry requirements **
- * Assist local youth with the skills they need to be successful in tomorrow’s workforce **

At NO COST to you, ACEC invites you to participate in our WorkforceConnect program the week of June 18 – 22, 2007. Educators will visit business, government, non-profit and industry organizations to learn what positions are available, the minimum skills required for entry and mid-level positions, and career paths offered.

Your part would be to:

- Register to host 10 - 15 educators for a company tour, 90 minute presentation, and Q&A session.
- Prepare an overview of your industry in general and your specific company, occupations available at your company, outline the basic skills, certifications and degrees required for new hires, and discuss the promotion and ongoing educational opportunities available to employees.
- Whenever possible, share copies of company documents that teachers can use in classroom discussions.
- Two representatives from each organization are invited to participate in the final workshop on Friday morning and then be our guests at the wrap-up luncheon with the educators.

In addition to company specific information, educators will be given an overview of the industrial and employment base of Adams County by Adams County Economic Development (“ACED”). They will also learn of new developments and company expansions that offer opportunities for well-prepared students.

To participate in this powerful program, complete the attached registration pages and fax them to:

Adams County Education Consortium
Attn: Janie Goodwin
Fax: 303-252-8230

WorkforceConnect

June 18 – 22, 2007

www.adamscountveducation.org

12050 Pecos Street, Suite 200
Westminster, CO 80234
Ph: 303-450-5106 Fax: 303-252-8230

The Adams County Education Consortium (“ACEC”) Second Annual WorkforceConnect

- * Help local educators craft YOUR future workforce **
- * Discuss basic employee skills your industry/company needs **
- * Get the word out to local educators about your industry requirements **
- * Assist local youth with the skills they need to be successful in tomorrow’s workforce **

At NO COST to you, ACEC invites you to participate in our WorkforceConnect program the week of June 18 – 22, 2007. Educators will visit business, government, non-profit and industry organizations to learn what positions are available, the minimum skills required for entry and mid-level positions, and career paths offered.

Your part would be to:

- Register to host 10 - 15 educators for a company tour, 90 minute presentation, and Q&A session.
- Prepare an overview of your industry in general and your specific company, occupations available at your company, outline the basic skills, certifications and degrees required for new hires, and discuss the promotion and ongoing educational opportunities available to employees.
- Whenever possible, share copies of company documents that teachers can use in classroom discussions.
- Two representatives from each organization are invited to participate in the final workshop on Friday morning and then be our guests at the wrap-up luncheon with the educators.

In addition to company specific information, educators will be given an overview of the industrial and employment base of Adams County by Adams County Economic Development (“ACED”). They will also learn of new developments and company expansions that offer opportunities for well-prepared students.

To participate in this powerful program, complete the attached registration pages and fax them to:

Adams County Education Consortium
Attn: Janie Goodwin
Fax: 303-252-8230

WorkforceConnect

June 18 – 22, 2007

www.adamscountveducation.org

12050 Pecos Street, Suite 200
Westminster, CO 80234
Ph: 303-450-5106 Fax: 303-252-8230

The Adams County Education Consortium (“ACEC”) Second Annual WorkforceConnect

- * Help local educators craft YOUR future workforce **
- * Discuss basic employee skills your industry/company needs **
- * Get the word out to local educators about your industry requirements **
- * Assist local youth with the skills they need to be successful in tomorrow’s workforce **

At NO COST to you, ACEC invites you to participate in our WorkforceConnect program the week of June 18 – 22, 2007. Educators will visit business, government, non-profit and industry organizations to learn what positions are available, the minimum skills required for entry and mid-level positions, and career paths offered.

Your part would be to:

- Register to host 10 - 15 educators for a company tour, 90 minute presentation, and Q&A session.
- Prepare an overview of your industry in general and your specific company, occupations available at your company, outline the basic skills, certifications and degrees required for new hires, and discuss the promotion and ongoing educational opportunities available to employees.
- Whenever possible, share copies of company documents that teachers can use in classroom discussions.
- Two representatives from each organization are invited to participate in the final workshop on Friday morning and then be our guests at the wrap-up luncheon with the educators.

In addition to company specific information, educators will be given an overview of the industrial and employment base of Adams County by Adams County Economic Development (“ACED”). They will also learn of new developments and company expansions that offer opportunities for well-prepared students.

To participate in this powerful program, complete the attached registration pages and fax them to:

Adams County Education Consortium
Attn: Janie Goodwin
Fax: 303-252-8230

WorkforceConnect

June 18 – 22, 2007

www.adamscountveducation.org

12050 Pecos Street, Suite 200
Westminster, CO 80234
Ph: 303-450-5106 Fax: 303-252-8230

The Adams County Education Consortium (“ACEC”) Second Annual WorkforceConnect

- * Help local educators craft YOUR future workforce **
- * Discuss basic employee skills your industry/company needs **
- * Get the word out to local educators about your industry requirements **
- * Assist local youth with the skills they need to be successful in tomorrow’s workforce **

At NO COST to you, ACEC invites you to participate in our WorkforceConnect program the week of June 18 – 22, 2007. Educators will visit business, government, non-profit and industry organizations to learn what positions are available, the minimum skills required for entry and mid-level positions, and career paths offered.

Your part would be to:

- Register to host 10 - 15 educators for a company tour, 90 minute presentation, and Q&A session.
- Prepare an overview of your industry in general and your specific company, occupations available at your company, outline the basic skills, certifications and degrees required for new hires, and discuss the promotion and ongoing educational opportunities available to employees.
- Whenever possible, share copies of company documents that teachers can use in classroom discussions.
- Two representatives from each organization are invited to participate in the final workshop on Friday morning and then be our guests at the wrap-up luncheon with the educators.

In addition to company specific information, educators will be given an overview of the industrial and employment base of Adams County by Adams County Economic Development (“ACED”). They will also learn of new developments and company expansions that offer opportunities for well-prepared students.

To participate in this powerful program, complete the attached registration pages and fax them to:

Adams County Education Consortium
Attn: Janie Goodwin
Fax: 303-252-8230

